a fit of laughter. The company is now in an exceedingly prosperous condition, having some fifty active and nearly seventy contributing members. RAILROAD SUIT .- The Washington Tribune of this morning says:

"Yesterday, in the Circuit Court, Chief Jus tice Cartter, the case of Norman Pruiti vs. The Baltimore & Potomac Railroad Co., an action for damages, was taken up. Mr. M. Thompson appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. H. W. Garnett for the defendant. Plaintiff was the holder of a twenty five trip ticket be-tween this city and Alexandria, and sues for damages alleged to have been received by being ejected from a train in June, 1874, for which he claims $5,000. The plaintiff in his testimony said that when the conductor came might be punched out, and the conductor refused to punch the ticket unless delivered in his hands, and that he refused to give the ticket to the conductor because on a previous occasion two numbers had been punched out. On cross-examination witness said the conductor (Kegan) had previously threatened to punch the ticket wice, because the holes did not take out certain numbers, and subsequent ly Kegan did so, and he then made up his mind that he would never allow Kegan to get ossession of the ticket again until he had had his twenty-five rides. The testimony was not concluded yesterday when the court adjourned, and the jury was respited until Monday."

> 22D OF FEBRUARY PARADE.-It is believed 0.00 that no doubt now exists as to the success of the proposition for a parade of the Fire Depar ment on Washington's birthday. Three of the five companies have appointed committees favorable to the project, and the other companies, which meet next week will probably dolikewise. It is hoped that the trades and business houses may be represented in the parade, as they formerly were, and a proposition has been made that they, and the hotel and restaurant keepers, who derive great benefit from the crowds tion of several new members. of people drawn to the city by these celebrations, shall be called on to contribute towards commences on Monday nex. LEBANON FARMER'S CLUB. -At a meeting of the Lebanon and Anandale Farmer's Club on Thursday, 6th inst., the question of protection to sheep raising being brought up, considerable discussion ensued on that and other subjects recommended by Gov. Kemper in his late message to the Ligislature. Finally resolutions were adopted endorsing the Governor's views in regard to encouraging immigration, protection to wool growing, and exemption of manufacturing establishments from taxation for a limited period. The secretary was directed to forward a copy of the resolutions to the Senator and Delegate representing Fairfax in the General Assembly and request them to use every means to have these measures secured by law. ## FROM WASHINGTON in session to-day. The anniversary of the battle of New Orleans has passed without note. There are a few flogs floating, but these are hoisted nearly every day, and have no reference to the anni versary.

There seems to be every probability that the Centennial million and a haif appropriation will pass before the close of the month. The President uses what influence he can in its favor.

There are, as is usual on Saturday afternoons, a large number of Alexanoria ladies in Washington, and this accounts for the generally noticed fact that more pretty faces than usual are seen on the avenue.

Downey, the famous colored restauranter of the House, has been removed, and Mr. Freund, of this city, has secured the prize.

Foreign News.

BERLIN, Jan. 8. - Count Andrassy's note in regard to the proposed reforms in the Sultan's vassal provinces makes no definite proposal for controlling the execution of these re forms, but it is stated that he proposes a virtual control through the supervision of the conuis and the reports of the ambassadors.

LONDON, Jan. S .- The Pall Mail Gazette's special telegram from Berlin, says that Andrassy's proposals are substantially identical with the suggestions made by the foreign consuls assembled at Mostar las: Autum, and are designed to remedy the grievances they indicated. The question of guarantees is postponed until the Sublime Porte indicates the acceptance or rejection of the proposals.

Execution. WINNIPEG, MANITOBA, Jan. 8.-Angers Melver, convicted at the last assizes, of the murder of Goo. Atkinson and the attempted murder of Baptiste Charette was hanged at 10 o'clock. The hangman bungled his work, the knot slipped under the chin of the victim, the nick was unbroken and death was caused by strangulation. He struggled hard for (w) and a half minutes, but one minute later life was extinct. He made no confession and maintained to the last that the night of the murder was a blank to him.
